Along the Mystical Carmelite Way

St. John of the Cross on LOVE

LOVE, THE "LIVING FLAME"

It is the means par excellence of our union with God - Love, which is called "charity" in the Christian vocabulary, in the sense specified by Benedict XVI in the first part of his encyclical, Deus Caritas Est.

It is love which impels one to get out of oneself at the point of departure; it is love which makes us progress, and it is love which finally brings about the plenitude that John of the Cross describes:

*There you will show me
What my soul has been seeking,
And then you will give me,
You, my life, will give there
What you gave me on that other day.*

"What the soul had always been seeking is to love God as purely and perfectly as he loves her in order to repay him by such love... Since she sees through her transformation in God in this life that she cannot, even though her love is immense, equal the perfection of God's love for her, she desires the clear transformation of glory in which she will reach that equality." - Spiritual Canticle, 38

*The breathing of the air
The song of the sweet nightingale
The grove and its living beauty
In the serene night,
With a flame that is consuming and painless.*

"The breathing of the air is an ability that the soul states God will give her there in the communication of the Holy Spirit. By his divine breath-like spiration, the Holy Spirit elevates the soul sublimely and informs her and makes her capable of breathing in God the same spiration of love that the Father breathes in the Son and the Son in the Father. This spiration of love is the Holy Spirit himself. ... God created her in his image and likeness that she might attain such resemblance."
